“The Golf Room is one of the fastest growing academies in the America. After halting my playing career three years ago due to having kids and wanting to be home, God has grown The Golf Room to places I could have only imagined. I presently see over 75 students a week and need some of that taken off my plate as well as the incredibly growth my newest instructor Carson Stone. Carson was hired in November and I am projecting him to be fully booked out by the fall of 2018. The demand for teaching at The Golf Room is great and we are looking for a perfect fit to join our elite team. We have gone through 4 expansions in 3 years and never plan on settling. There is no ceiling as to how big The Golf Room can get and how many locations we can serve. I come from a team of mentors including Mike Bender, James Sieckmann, Stan Utley, and the girls from vision 54. Ideally, our teaching philosophies would align since we will be working with many of the same students in our academy and do not want our students to have conflicting ideas. We do a lot of on course work and really prefer the teacher to be a solid player and able to perform all the drills we ask of our students. This job is great for a young, motivated, humble, former competitive player that is looking to be a part of something special for a long time. Thanks for applying and best of luck.”
